1. The Annual Bulk Terminals Conference – the only event aimed at the whole bulk terminals industry

The high-value programmes for the Annual Bulk Terminals Conferences are designed for all those involved in the transportation, storage and handling of bulk commodities – including many senior buyers. Please click here for the 2017 and 2018 brochures and final programmes.

Ample time is provided for sponsors and exhibitors to participate and contribute to the discussions and learn about the challenges bulk terminals face – and most importantly an opportunity to network. In addition to networking breaks and discussions, the relaxed and convivial atmosphere of the conference reception – this year on a boat during a tour of Hamburg Harbour – is not to be missed.

As well as terminals, we welcome equipment and service suppliers, professional advisors and academics. Indeed ABTO feels strongly it is only through the interaction with these others that terminals will achieve increased operational efficiencies, together with safety and environmental regulatory compliance. So, sponsors with a positive message on safety, efficiency or the environment are very welcome on the programme.

Our first – and very well received – gathering in London represented all sectors on the bulk terminals industry. Achieving efficiency and compliance was the theme that ran through Bulk Terminals 2017. The conference covered markets, IMO regulation, biomass, liquefaction, achieving operational efficiencies, environmental & safety issues, rail connectivity and security.

Following the success of the 2017 London conference the focus of our second conference Bulk Terminals 2018 in Hamburg was on the topics of most concern to bulk ports – improving safety, streamlining operations and ensuring environmental protection – and how the wider industry serving them can provide solutions.

Bulk Terminals 2019 will continue to focus was on the issues which bulk terminal operators tell us they most want to understand and find the solutions for namely: improving operations; keeping abreast of increasing environmental regulation; improving safety as well as security and how suppliers' technologies can assist them to achieve these objectives. Feedback from Bulk Terminals 2018 showed a high level of interest in market analysis and development opportunities, which will also be examined.

2. Why Sponsor or Exhibit at Bulk Terminals 2019?

The Bulk Terminals Conference offers an exciting opportunity to demonstrate the advantages of your products and services directly to senior executives and buyers working in the dry bulk terminal operating community.

In addition to giving you access at the conference to valuable personal contacts from bulk terminals, our promotion of the event takes your branding and message straight to those key decision makers.

All sponsors and exhibitors receive an integrated package of benefits, including delegate places. Our promotional and PR efforts for Bulk Terminals 2018 – and the benefits to your organisation – start immediately, maintain during and continue well after the event.

The benefits of sponsorship to your organisation include:

- Reaching terminal managers holding key operational and technical responsibility
- Targeted direct mailings to ABTO key contacts
- Email campaigns featuring your corporate logo and links
- Branding through advertising, a web presence and conference signage
- Press and advertising campaigns in ABTO supporting publications – Bulk Terminals International (BTI), the ABTO members quarterly magazine, and ABTONews, the organisation's monthly newsletter
- Face to face contact and valuable networking opportunities
- The opportunity for thought leadership: where appropriate share your knowledge by chairing, giving a presentation, running a roundtable or joining a panel discussion
- High level influence: Ian Adams, ABTO Chief Executive attends IMO meetings relevant to the bulk terminal sector – no commercial event provider can offer conference participants such a unique opportunity to feed directly into discussion on and therefore influence the future direction of terminal regulation
- Advantageous rates for additional delegates or VIP guests
